MADEIRA, PORTUGAL - HENRIQUES & HENRIQUES

If it were not for rain during September in the south coast at Estreito de Camara de Lobos, The 2014 harvest would have been better. Having said this, “Tinta Negra” was the most productive variety and the grapes were all very nice and clean with a fine degree of alcohol potential. Grapes from the north coast, particularly from São Vicente, were brilliant. They were harvested a bit later and had a beautiful ripening resulting in palatable grapes and soft fruity must.
